

CREATIVE HANDS

Trees fell and earth was moved then came the dwellings of Man;
industry began to slowly bloom
the product of creative hands.

Roads linked the rising worlds cities rose to touch the clouds Voices called their wild ideas to be written by creative hands.

The job of running this planet takes effort and working plans the varied moves of completion all done by our creative hands.

No matter how strong the labor nor how involved the final end the nation began and continues by an effort of creative hands.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. LARRY THRASH

Before an altar banked with palms, Southern greenery and lavish arrangements of white and yellow chrysanthemums illuminated by glowing cathedral tapers, Miss Lynda Lee Yeldell became the bride of Larry Dan Thrash Saturday evening, August 31.
She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter L. Yeldell, Sr. of Hot Springs. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thrash of Hope.
The double-ring ceremony was solemnized at the Second Baptist Church in Hot Springs with the Rev. James E. Hill and Dr. Yeldell, father of the bride, officiating.
A program of traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Mayme Ruth Abernathy, organist, and Miss Carolyn Ann Yeldell, sister of the bride, soloist. Miss Yeldell sang "Because" and "Eternal Life."
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white organza over peau de sole. The bodice, fashioned with high neckline, the short sleeves, and the chapel train were heavily appliqued with flowered lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a cluster of organza petals encrusted with iridescent sequins tiers of cascading French illusion. She carried a white Bible and her bouquet was of Phalaenopsis orchids showered with white Stephanotis.
Miss Carolyn Yeldell was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of yellow linen, fashioned with scooped neckline and short sleeves outlined with white daisy trim. Her paneled skirt formed a demi-train. Her headpiece was a Dior bow with long daisy trimmed streamers from the back. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow chrysanthemum with cascading moss green ribbons.
Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ted Jones of Alexandria, Virginia, sister of the groom, Deborah Jane Yeldell, sister of the bride, Mrs. Thomas Gill of Little Rock, Miss Sharon Ann Evans of North Little Rock. They wore moss green linen gowns of identical style as the maid of honor's and carried colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums with green streamers.
W. H. Thrash served his son as best man.
Groomsmen included Thomas Williams, Buddy Jordan, Delbert Palmer and Dennis Ramsey.
Candlelighters were Ted Jones, brother-in-law of the groom and Walter Yeldell, Jr., brother of the bride. Ushers were Ricky Pierce, Mike Allen and Thomas Gill.
For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Yeldell chose a semi-fitted, A-line dress of seafam Alaskine with a softly rolled collar trimmed with rhinestones. Her accessories were in a matching shade of green.
Mrs. Thrash selected a delicate champagne beige silk linen and lace ensemble with matching accessories.
Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.
A reception in Fellowship Hall followed the ceremony. The serving table was covered with white satin, overlaid with white net, caught up at the corners with yellow chrysanthemums and fern. The centerpiece was a large silver candelabrum holding white tapers encircled with yellow chrysanthemums and greenery. The tiered wedding cake was served by Miss Penny Kuntz, of Hot Springs and Miss Janet Sims of Batesville served punch from the silver punch service. Background piano music was provided by Miss Sandra Hobgood of Hot Springs. Miss Claudia Johnson, of Searcy, presided at the bride's book. Rice bags were offered to the guests by Kathy and Jeff Snider of Tulsa, Okla., cousins of the bride.
Out of town guests included: Mrs. Jim Naron, Warren, Ark.; Mrs. J. O. Gould, Washington, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Thrash and daughters Pam and Ann from Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thrash and Kathy, Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Toland, Nashville, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spears, West Memphis, Ark.; Mrs. Jeff Black, Arkadelphia; Mr. Ed Flaig, Gay, Ark.; Mrs. James Harkreader, Clarksville, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Snider, Jeff and Kathy Snider, Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rowton, West Memphis; Glenn Yeldell, Stuttgart, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Yeldell and Vicki Davis from Little Rock.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Goldiggers," NBC's youth oriented summer variety series, marched gaily into oblivion with Thursday night's performance. And it will be missed by, among others, a lot of parents and a sprinkling of grandparents. What other show can make a finger-snapping teen turn to a TV-watching parent and say with surprise, "Why, Dad, you know all the words."
The idea of reviving the old 1930 and 1940 songs in a modern frame worked out to be excellent summer entertainment. There has been plenty of song and dance, pretty good comedy and a nice blithe spirit all around.
There is talk of bringing it back as a midwinter replacement although at the moment it seems that the three networks are overstocked with variety shows.
Next week the hour will be filled with the first of NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas, Rod Serling's "Certain Honorable Men."
Serling's drama about national politics and politicians—premiere of NBC's answer to "CBS Playhouse"—will be slightly unusual because it will be allowed to run a few minutes beyond its allocated 90 minutes. It will not really mean that the network is planning to abandon the rigid time barriers that chop commercial television into 30, 60, or 90-minute segments. The extra few minutes will run beyond prime time into the late evening newscasts, which are local shows.
It would be difficult to run overtime for even a minute or two in a program broadcast in mid-evening because that would upset the timing for other network shows and, worse, commercials.
At the 11th hour, the producers of next Saturday night's "Miss America Pageant" made their peace with the composer of the show's stirring theme song and Bert Parks as usual will be heard warbling "There She Is, Miss America."
For a while it seemed that the pageant, televised annually since 1954, would just not be the same. Composer Bernie Wayne and the pageant management disagreed about royalties for the song and it was decided to drop it.
Bess Myerson, the 1945 Miss America, has been hostess for the past 14 years and Parks has been master of ceremonies and official baritone since 1955.
"What's My Line" after all those years on CBS will be reborn next week as a syndicated series—a daily series sold to local stations. Arlene Francis will be the only member of the original cast and a former ABC newsmen, Wally Bruner, will have John Daly's old moderating job.
The familiar format of the guessing game has been changed. In the new version the guests will demonstrate their occupations, on stage or by film clips.
Transplants Wrong, Says Professor
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A medical professor who opposed heart transplant operations last spring says their success has convinced him that he was wrong.
"Transplantation is here," said Dr. Elliot Corday of the University of California at Los Angeles. He is a past president of the American College of Cardiology.
In a debate last spring with Dr. Christiaan Barnard of Cape Town, South Africa, Corday urged a moratorium on heart transplants.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel
JEALOUS MOTHER
CHILLS DAUGHTER
Dear Helen: My mother is only 16 years older than I am. She wants me to call her Elaine, never "Mother." People usually take us for sisters. Lots of times I think I act more mature. She spends most of her time in front of a mirror. She really is beautiful.
When my boy friends come, she is right in there pitching. She even gets them to dance with her. It seems like she never misses a chance to make me look mousey and uninteresting. One guy really fell for her, and she made a big joke of it to her friends.
Well, that's her way and I try to ignore it. But do you think it's right when she gets jealous if I show Dad any affection? If I even kiss him on top of the head she snaps, "Quit acting so silly!" After all, SHE never notices him, so I think some body should.
Could you please tell me how I could get a mother, instead of a jealous rival?—TIREDFOR THE SISTER ACT
Dear Tired: Ask me something simple, like how to make a leopard change his spots!
Don't waste your effort on jealousy. Spend it competing with someone worthwhile—yourself. And try to feel sympathy for an arrested adolescent who hasn't much going for her except looks. She'll need it someday, when those looks are hidden by lines.
—H.
Dear Helen: Many times I've wanted to write in and comment on something, but this time I just had to. The letter from "Worthless No Good" who figured she could never be a decent girl again, did it.
I've been going with a boy I'll call Ritchie for a year and a half. In the beginning it was great, but one thing led to another, and now I feel like a tramp. Believe me, this isn't love—it's desire. Nothing more. We all

WPA Marble Has One Buyer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — There were only two buyers Wednesday at an auction of 100 tons of native marble stored at the State Capitol after a Works Progress Administration program in the 1930s.
Tony J. Culum, on behalf of Gov. Tim Babcock, paid $12.50 each for three column support bases weighing 2 1/2 tons each. But the governor's plans for the bases were not disclosed. Mrs. Lee Kuchel of Helena bought the fourth for her garden.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Selecting a Dentist In a Strange City

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

How SHOULD one choose a dentist when he is a stranger in town?

You can use the shotgun method. Open the yellow pages, stick a pin into a name; or select an address that's near or one that has some "class"; or ask a neighbor or friend, or policeman or nurse, or the guy who sits next to you at the office.

You may be lucky and get the "right" dentist, but you take your chances. It's more prudent to make your selection after careful considerations: ability, personality, age, location, type of specialty, personal and office cleanliness, fee schedule, whether he takes care of children, whether he is too booked up to see you without a long wait, if he is kind, if you can talk with him, if he runs a "shop" with many operating rooms, if he keeps patients waiting, etc.

In some cities the problem is compounded by a shortage of dentists who are so busy that you really need influence to get them to take you on as a patient.

Here are some hints:
1. Ask your old dentist to recommend a dentist in your new location. He will often know a classmate or friend.

2. Call the local dental association.

3. Your employer may have a panel of dentists to recommend.

4. If you are in a university town that has a dental school, ask them to recommend someone.

5. Call the local hospital.
6. If you have an immediate problem, go to the emergency room of your local hospital.

One thing you shouldn't do:

Don't walk in on a dentist.
Most dentists object to this casual approach. They feel that you haven't selected them for their ability, but only for availability.

Hurryingly, the team drove to the three, where third down came around. McWilliams took a pitchout, but fumbled inches short of the goal, and that was one fumble too many. Ashdown 7, Hope 0.
Rodney Jones led all carriers with 70 yards in 13 tries, and McWilliams got 60 yards on 12 carries. Jim Alford went 6-30 yards, Mike Monroe ran three times for 22 yards, and Larry Massanelli had 13 yards on five rushes. Eskew sashayed through the line 13 times for 61 yards to lead the winners.
The Hope line fired off well, and the defensive tackling was hard-nosed as it ever had been, with good gang tackling. Jim Alford, Mickey Allen, and Larry McWilliams shone along with Rodney Brown on defense.
Now the Bobcats prepare, with no injuries, for the Prescott Curley Wolves, who whipped Stamps 21-7 last night. It will be interesting to see if the Bobcats can bounce back.

Pitching Stars Faced Frustrating Early Days

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Right-handers Bob Gibson and Denny McLain, baseball's two finest pitchers this season, have reached the top in strangely similar and yet quite diverse routes.

When Gibson was Denny McLain's age, he was embittered, frustrated and seriously thinking of quitting baseball. In 1960, the then 24-year-old was sent to the minors by the St. Louis Cardinals for the second time in his brief career.

"The Cardinals had promised me a chance to pitch," said Gibson. "And Solly Hemus, the manager then, pitched me like once every 15 or 20 days. You can't have the good stuff or control that way. He didn't have confidence in me and I was sent down, without that chance. I was deeply disappointed."

Gibson, who had starred in basketball for Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., his hometown, had played also with the Harlem Globetrotters. "I thought I might try pro basketball," he said. "I'm only 6-1, but I can jump and shoot well. I think I could have played in the NBA."

The Cardinal management and particularly Johnny Keane, who managed Gibson at Omaha of the American Association, continued to tell him his baseball future was bright. In July 1961, Hemus was fired and Keane took over. Gibson credits that move as the turning point in his career. On Keane's first day, he handed Gibson the ball and said, "Here. You pitch."

Gibson, gleeful, went out and beat the Dodgers, hitting a home run for good measure. "That season," said Gibson, "was when I first began to prefer baseball to basketball." His won-lost record was 13-12. It improved every year—until his leg was broken by a line drive midway through the 1967 season. In 1962 Gibson won 15 games, in '63 18, in '64 19, in '65 20 and '66 21. Last year he was 13-7, but came back from the injury to beat the Boston Red Sox three times in the World Series.

McLain, too, experienced a period when baseball seemed less than the most attractive way to earn his bread. In April 1963, McLain, then 19, was disillusioned when he claimed on first-year waivers (for $8,000) by the Detroit Tigers.

Growing up in Chicago, McLain had always wanted to play in his hometown. He had been a pitching sensation at Mt. Carmel High School on the south side. The White Sox signed him after graduation and shipped him to Harlan (Ky.) of the Appalachian League and, shortly after, to Clinton (Ia.) of the Midwest League.

He jumped both clubs to return home for a few days. (His complaints about Har-

THE HARD ONE—Tiger ace Denny McLain fires a fast ball at Ted Uhlaender of the Minnesota Twins. Uhlaender missed it. But he should not feel alone. Most other American League batters this season have experienced the same frustration with McLain's offerings.

Namath Sit-Out Rankles

Joe Namath's unilateral decision not to play in the opening preseason game will lead to the ultimate confrontation between him and coach Weeb Ewbank as to how the New York Jets will be run—and who'll run them. While Weeb was suggesting, almost until game time, that Namath would play against Houston, Joe had already told friends the day before that he would definitely sit it out in the Astrodome.

His knees were no better or worse, according to medical testimony, than they've been the last couple of years. In fact, the man who operated on them, Dr. James Nicholas, insists they're better.

The sit-out by Namath emphasized the breach between him and Ewbank. The quarterback embarrassed his own coach and the new take-over owners of the club, Phil Iselein and Townsend Martin, who, watching the Jets warm up from the plush Astro-club, didn't even know that Namath wouldn't be in uniform. The same morning, Namath had looked spry enough passing and running in a team practice on the Astroturf.

Owner Bud Adams of the Oilers and the general manager, Don Klosterman, weren't any happier, either. "It's an American league city," fumed Klosterman, "and we've got an obligation to the fans. We should at least have warned he might not play." Which means Ewbank isn't blameless either. He was less than candid in his pregame announcements, with not a hint of Namath's condition.

Of course, Joe knows best if his hinge hurts. It was only an exhibition, and it didn't help his peace of mind there'd be only a rookie tackle between him and the lungs of all-league defensive end Pat Holmes. But even tokenism wouldn't have been out of order to dissolve a ticklish situation. All Joe had to do was put on his uniform, go out and throw a few passes to assuage the more than 40,000 customers who had been lured by the Namath-oriented publicity. Instead, he ignored Ewbank's plea to suit up for the game.

Conclusion: Who's running the Jets, the coach or the quarterback? One veteran back grumbled after the loss, "How're you gonna do well when you practice all week long thinking you're gonna have one quarterback, and he doesn't even dress to play?"

The Jets aren't exactly strangers to botched public relations. They tried to cool the news for a couple of days that Emerson Boozer, their top running back, would be late coming to camp because he was awaiting a medical discharge from the Army. And now they're blaming a New York telecaster for the fact that Boozer's still in the service, because the broadcaster stirred up attention to his case.

Scattered notes: Sonny Bishop, the fine offensive guard of the Oilers, is one-quarter Sioux Indian. His paternal grandmother was full Sioux, named Hattie Bull-Eater. His great-grandfather, who died at age 94, was named Owens-the-Battle. Sonny was born on Indian land in Winner, S.D., which also produced a Notre Dame lineman named Frank Leahy.

Between you'n' me, Slater Martin, the old Laker basketball great who now runs the Houston franchise in the American Basketball League, is still miffed at losing Elvin Hayes and guard Don Cheney of the Houston U team. He courted Hayes with more than a cup of coffee. And Cheney spurned a deal which involved mutual funds and would have guaranteed him $1,500 a month a decade from now, when he'd be 32, until he reached the age of 65.

NFL EAST: Century Division—Pittsburgh

PROSPECTUS—The Bill Austin regime has had a couple of years to get untracked, but it's still in the stumbling-along stages. "We're going to have a good football team," promises coach Austin, "this time out." But the paper facts would seem to refute him; and so would the preseason performances. The quarterbacking remains uncertain, since Kent Nix isn't a proven quality. The general quality throughout the lineup doesn't excite championship talk. PREDICTION—Fourth in Century Division.

OFFENSE
PASSING—By trading Bill Nelson, Austin demonstrated faith in Nix as the Steeler quarterback of present and future. He threw too many interceptions last year, though he had a couple of good days. Steelers were also left vulnerable for backup man when Dick Shiner got hurt. Rating—C.
RECEIVING—It's the strongest phase of Steeler attack, both in individual talent and depth. Starters Roy Jefferson, J. R. Wilburn are fine threats to go all the way. John Hilton's a strong, tough tight end and may finally get help from Tony Jeter. Dick Compton at split end has been a revelation since he signed as a free agent. Young Ken Hebert may help if he gets healthy. Rating—B+.
RUNNING—They keep looking for the right combination. Now it seems to Don Sky, with a year of experience under his belt, and perennially promising Earl Gros. But they always seem to get back to Bill Asbury and old faithful Dick Hook. Rocky Bleier of Notre Dame has shown some training camp flashes. Rating—B-.

DEFENSE
LINE—At least, there'll be adequate depth for a change. Starting quartet, left to right, of Lloyd Voss, Ken Kortes, Chuck Hinton and Ben McGee isn't bad. Now Ernie Rypke, a highly rated rookie, and retired Frank Parker of Cleveland, plus holdover Dick Arndt, are available for emergency duty. The pass rush, with characters like McGee, is adequate. Rating—B.
LINEBACKING—An injury to Bill Saul, the middle man, may hurt in the early stages of the season. When he returns, the situation improves. John Campbell is an experienced man on the left side, kept lively by the presence of Roy May. Andy Russell on the right corner is a potential all-leaguer. Austin thinks he should have gone to the Pro Bowl last year. Rating—B.
SECONDARY—Increased depth is evident here, too, despite departure of corner man Brady Kays to St. Louis. Merv Woodson, remaining corner man, is top-grade stuff. Bob Hobbs' been around long enough to merit a job. The safeties, Cleoan Thomas (in 11th year) and Paul Marzke, are solid. And young Bob Wade, Lou Harris and speed in reserve. Rating—B+.
KICKING—The punting picked up with addition of Bobby Walden from Minnesota, plus rookie Hebert. But Bill Shockley, much traveled place-kicker, isn't up to Mike Clark's class. Rating—B.

Waste Of Money, Danger
To Lives

A bill is slipping through Congress which is an outrageous waste of your tax money and a danger to your lives. It is S. 2656, which would allow heavier, wider and length-without-limit trucks including triple-trailers, on the interstate highways.

The American Automobile Association opposes the bill. So does the United States Conference of Mayors. So do many state highway officials. Yet so powerful are the truckers' lobbies that the Senate passed the bill and the House Public Works Committee approved it after 40 minutes of consideration.

More important is the safety factor. How much more dangerous will it be passing trucks so wide there are only 18 inches to spare, or having a triple-trailer practically under one's rear bumper when one is trying to keep reasonably close to speed limits?

We do not mean all trucks operate this way. But every motorist knows that many do. What he may not know is that, according to some House committee members, heavy trucks were involved in 11.6 per cent of 1964's highway deaths while traveling 5.33 per cent of the miles. - Florence (S.C.) Member Asks Chairman to Resign

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — James W. Hurley of Springdale, one of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's appointees to the state Aeronautics Commission, Thursday asked Commission Chairman Doyle Moore of Little Rock to resign.

Hurley said Moore had canceled three straight monthly commission meetings because he would not be able to "control the vote." Hurley made the statement in a letter to Moore. Moore said he would be happy to call a meeting of the commission "if they've got any business that needs to be brought before the commission."

Moore said the commission had few funds, receiving about $20,000 this year from the three per cent sales tax on aviation fuels, down from the usual $96,000 a year.

Star Sends 2 to Fayetteville Meet

Two members of The Star staff will attend the annual convention of state classified advertising managers to be held Sunday in the Downtown Motor Lodge at Fayetteville, sponsored by the Arkansas Press Association. They are: Miss Virginia Hiscott, classified manager; and Miss Sharon Carman, circulation bookkeeper.

Censorship Has Changed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Movie censorship has come a long way since 1909, says 85-year-old attorney Morris Wolf, who represented Philadelphia's first motion picture exhibition company before the Pennsylvania Movie Censorship Board.

"I remember the censors... objected to a scene with a cradle," he said. "They said it was too suggestive that it suggested a birth would take place. They made us take it out."

Teachers Well Pleased

Middle-aged Sign When You Have a Yearning to Return to School

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments of a Pavement Plato: Are we flooding our schools with the wrong people?

We are sending our kids there. Might it not be better if the grownups went?

This month some 57 million young people will inundate U.S. kindergartens, classrooms and campuses. Many of them profess a reluctance, since it is "the thing" to do.

"Gee, vacation is so much fun I hate to think of going back to school," said my daughter, Tracy, who is 15 and is secretly rather proud that she'll be a high school sophomore.

"I wish I could go in your place," I told her.

"You must be kidding," she said, unbelieving.

But I wasn't kidding at all. Millions of middle-aged Americans, I am sure, have a wistful yearning to return for a refresher course in the groves of academe.

George Bernard Shaw once said it was too bad youth had to be wasted on the young. The same thing might be said about education.

"Civilization is a race between education and catastrophe," once observed H. G. Wells. This remark is often ridiculed now by our precocious youth as just another pompous platitude from one of yesterday's fuddy-duddies.

But many grown ups have a feeling of desperation that their own education is hardly sufficient to avert the catastrophe.

The sheepskin they won years ago, if they did win one, has hardly proved a passport to safety. They have merely, at the best, stayed off catastrophe. Once they, too, were "the hope of tomorrow," but today a younger generation bitterly blames them for the pickle the world finds itself in.

They survived a terrible business depression, two great world conflicts. Yet civilization, dwelling uneasily under the Damocles sword of atomic extermination, seems in greater danger than ever.

They survived a terrible business depression, two great world wars and innumerable smaller conflicts. Yet civilization, dwelling uneasily under the Damocles sword of atomic extermination, seems in greater danger than ever. The average middle-aged man doesn't feel educated. He feels woefully ignorant. He hasn't had much time to campaign for a better world. He has been too busy earning a living, keeping his kids out of jail, and paying off mortgages.

Now, with many of the best years of his life behind him, he suddenly finds himself something of a stranger in the world he lives in. Knowledge has passed him by. Incessant change has riddled many of his firmest beliefs, raised doubts even as to the verity of his God.

"I'm darned if I really know what I am sure about," said one such man. "Everything I learned in school seems to be out-of-date or wrong. I'd give anything to go back to school and start getting educated all over again."

Certainly, if given the chance, most middle-aged men wouldn't waste the opportunity. Perhaps it would be a good idea if every high school graduate, before going on to college, were forced to spend a year in the School of Hard Knocks, and his father given a sabbatical 12-month in a university discovering what the New Knowledge is all about.

It would be a real education experience for both son and dad, and at the end of it there would be less nonsense about "the generation gap" that yawns between them. Each would be wiser and understand the other better.

Isn't it worth a trial? There would be no lack of middle-aged volunteers.

National Guard Bill $4,207

Philadelphia Teacher Strike Averted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A threatened teachers' strike in Philadelphia has been averted but hundreds of teachers elsewhere in the nation continue walkouts that have delayed the opening of the fall term.

Any hopes for an extended vacation among 290,000 Philadelphia school children were dashed Thursday when the city put together a $27.6 million wage package to avert a strike by the 12,500 teachers.

Under the new two-year pact, salaries go up $1,800 to give beginning teachers $6,700 at the start and pushing the top wage to $13,200. The fall term opens today.

In Michigan where schools were scheduled to open earlier this week, 11 school districts serving almost 64,000 youngsters remained closed due to teachers' strikes.

Today's scheduled registration for 14,000 children in the Montgomery County-Clarksville, Tenn., system was postponed until further notice with 500 teachers out on strike over school budget cuts.

In East Chicago, Ind., a strike by nearly 500 teachers enters its third day. Six of the city's 13 schools were closed again Thursday and less than 50 per cent of the 100,000 pupils showed up. All but about 2,100 were sent home.

In East Chicago Heights, Ill., 49 of the district's 70 teachers called in sick Thursday and an attorney for the board declared it was "impossible for that many teachers to be sick at the same time."

A court injunction was obtained ordering the teachers back to work immediately but there were no indications as to whether they would comply.

An injunction was issued in Rhode Island directing Cumberland teachers to end a two-day boycott and report to classrooms today. A lawyer for the Cumberland Teachers Association said its members would comply.

The judge also ordered the Cumberland School Committee to meet with the 250-member association. Only 60 teachers showed up Thursday but the town's 13 schools opened briefly for 5,500 students.

Teachers in East Haven, Conn., did not report Thursday and were not expected in the classroom again today. The dispute involves about 200 teachers in 14 public schools with 6,000 students.

In New York City, where the United Federation of Teachers threatens a strike next Monday, school supervisors voted to shut the schools "for the safety of the children" in the event of a walkout.

Multipurpose Center Planned

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A proposal to build a $74,000 multipurpose center for the use of poor people has been unanimously endorsed by the Fayetteville City Manager Board.

The federal government, the city and the city's housing authority would finance construction of the center, which was proposed by the Washington County Economic Opportunity Agency. The center would be used for job training, recreation, neighborhood meetings and as a day-care center for the children of working parents.

Daley Gives Report On Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — A city report on demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention says revolutionaries intentionally sought hostile confrontations with police. It also says that similar disturbances are in store for other cities throughout the nation.

The report, issued Friday by Mayor Richard J. Daley, runs to 76 pages and concludes that the ultimate goal of demonstration leaders "was to topple what they consider to be the corrupt institutions of our society."

The immediate object, the report said, was to disrupt the city and last week's convention.

Sidney Lens, cochairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, said "the mayor's estimate of our strategy is as faulty as his sense of democratic values."

"The one thing we wanted to avoid most," Lens said, "was to do anything that would help Johnson or Humphrey to be elected, such as disrupting the convention."

The report amounts to a verbal presentation of what Daley had hoped to accomplish over nationwide television.

The battle of words over convention week events continued on other fronts, as well.

The Illinois division of the American Civil Liberties Union requested equal time if the Daley film is shown on television.

The superintendent of police, James B. Conlisk, defended the actions of his men during the demonstrations and said tear gas will be more extensively used in any future incidents.

And the police custodian of evidence put on display for newsmen more than 100 objects described as weapons seized from demonstrators.

These included baseball bats, a plastic ball with protruding spikes, broomsticks fixed with steel spikes, knives and two black widow spiders.

A spokesman for the mobilization committee said there were no instructions or plans for the demonstrators to be armed and that organizers could be no more accountable for the actions of individuals than the police are for the actions of individual patrolmen.

Berkeley Is After Total Integration

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The Board of Education is making a $200,000 bet this year that it can bring off the complete racial integration of Berkeley schools from kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Under the plan, all pupils from kindergarten through the third grade will attend schools which were predominantly white. All pupils from the fourth through the sixth grades will go to schools which were predominantly nonwhite.

"We consider this the first and most thorough school integration of significant size in the country," said Dr. Dan Freudenthal, the board's coordinator of research and publications.

Retorted Stanley Colbornson, a leading opponent of the plan: "It is a complete waste of taxpayers' money. It has never worked anywhere in the country. It's another indication of the socialist trend."

Berkeley has 9,000 grade school children. About 50 per cent are white, 41 per cent Negro and the rest Oriental or of other races.

Until now, most of the whites went to schools in the hill section of the city, most of the others to schools in the flatlands.

To bring about complete integration, the school board will bus 1,400 Negroes to 11 schools in the hills to attend kindergarten through third grade, and about 2,100 whites to four schools in the flatlands for the fourth through the sixth grades.

To integrate the school faculties about half of the 178 Negro teachers have been reassigned to the white areas and about 45 per cent of the 879 white teachers will teach in the Negro flatlands.

Portuguese Saint Was Truly a Man of Good Will, a Son of Christ

By MARY ANITA LASTER
Star Feature Writer

It isn't hard to figure that San Antonio, Texas, was named for a Saint Anthony. But, if you are at all curious, you want to know more about the patron saint of the HemisFair city. Much was learned about him at the Portuguese pavilion at the Fair because you see, he was born in Lisbon, Portugal in 1195.

It seems that this dedicated Christian, who only lived to be 36 years of age, is the patron of unmarried girls, and one of the oldest and most deep-rooted traditions in Lisbon is the mass wedding which takes place each year on Saint Anthony's Day. Then, dozen of young couples are cheered and receive gifts from the business community. The event is sponsored by the Lisbon evening paper, "Diario Popular," and it takes place under the auspices of the Town Hall.

In many respects, the story of this man of God and of letters reads like a report from the 20th Century instead of its actual place in time, the 13th Century. Both the Church and Europe were, then, profoundly divided. The causes for this state of affairs were basically grave mistakes by religious leaders and antagonistic political philosophies.

Saint Anthony did much to harmonize ideas and pacify the relentless European spirit of his time. Today, when one of the leading cries of contemporary life and thought is Womankind, many fail to realize that this man of the 13th Century had been captured by the same spirit of universality of the human kind.

He was a great preacher of his day. So much so that he was respected, by both believers and unbelievers, by Popes and revolutionaries alike. His aristocratic family "lived" in a palatial home in Lisbon. At 15 when he had completed his regular education at Lisbon's most prominent Catholic school, he decided to enter a monastery. He studied at two of them before taking the vows in the Franciscan Order in 1220, when he changed his name from Saint Anthony.... Fernando Martin de Bulhoes to—

Sure Sign Congress in Session

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a sure sign Congress was back in session. The champion of the marigold, the protector of birds was holding court.

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, Republican minority leader from Pekin, Ill., was perched on a table in the Senate press gallery with a cup of coffee in his hand and cigarettes nearby, holding his weekly news conference for the first time in a month.

Tousle-haired and irrepressible as ever, not even a story about a report that he was marked for assassination escaped the wry touch.

"I don't want my head blown off," Dirksen said he told police after one of three reports of threats on his life.

"I've got flowers in bloom and they need me. I've got 65 bird feeders now and the birds need me," he said.

But the news conference, darting as usual from anecdote to reminiscence to hard answers, touched on more than birds, flowers and assassination.

What did he think of chances the Senate would confirm Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice?

"Not roseate," he intoned. Did he think President Johnson should withdraw the nomination?

"I don't know what the President should or shouldn't do. I'm not the president, I should be but I'm not."

A search for his views on whether the Senate should return for more business after the elections somehow wandered into an account of how a florists' association gave him a gold rose as an award and the report that his own golden roses "are doing beautifully this year."

During his service to the church, he was greatly influenced by Saint Francis whom he heard deliver refined oratory in Assisi, Italy. Little did he realize that the same Saint Francis would, later, call on 27-year-old Anthony to preach a sermon to some young men who were being ordained. He did so well that from that time on he continued to perform this preaching duty regularly.

It wasn't for many years duration, however, for Saint Anthony died at Padua, Italy, on June 13, 1231. He was canonized by the Church only 13 months after his death, and today June 13 is Saint Anthony's Day. It is said that at the moment of the canonization—all church bells in Lisbon started to ring miraculously.

He was a Man of the World. He was truly a defender of Ecumenism at an age of despair, of hate and of unprecedented rivalry between men and nations. Men of good will, no matter their race, color or creed, look upon this Portuguese Saint as a true Son of Christ and a symbol that kindness, humility and knowledge are the key weapons in human endeavor.

New Breed of Nurses on the Way

By JACK R. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal health planners say there's a new breed of nurse on the way to provide the kind of personal home care that busy doctors have little time for.

The nurses—men and women—will need five to six years of college and university training for their roles as family health counselors.

Although they are to take over many of the functions doctors used to perform, the home-visiting nurses will work under the supervision of physicians.

"This new concept will take some getting used to," says Dr. Leonard D. Fenninger, director of the federal health manpower programs. But he predicts that in 10 to 20 years, visiting nurses will be "the common thing."

Public health nurses and other nurses have been functioning for years in somewhat the capacity envisioned for the new nurses.

But the new nurses would operate more independently. They would serve families or individuals as a first contact for all health problems, handling the ills they can and turning the others over to doctors.

The government has contributed to two projects which have put part of the approach into practice.

One project has nurses at the University of Colorado serving as assistant pediatricians. Nurses give the youngsters in a clinic the checks and care they need, turning over to doctors only the cases they can't handle.

The second project, supported entirely by a $150,000 federal grant, was set up by the Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Alabama. Nurses from the school went around rural Alabama in a mobile health unit, providing care to youngsters. The effort expanded to homes of the youngsters. Soon nurses were treating whole families.

Voting Law Violators Are Fined

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Circuit Judge Harry Crumpler fined 23 El Dorado residents $100 each and revoked their voting privileges for five years Thursday after they all pleaded no contest to charges of violating Arkansas voting laws.

Crumpler, however, restored voting privileges and revoked the fines on provisions of good behavior by the defendants.

The defendants allegedly voted in both the Republican and Democratic primaries July 30. Similar charges are pending against 31 Ouachita County residents.

Red China May Explode Atom Bomb

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China apparently is setting the stage for a major celebration on its 19th anniversary Oct. 1. U.S. experts do not rule out a nuclear test shot to capture world attention.

Red Chinese scientists at testing grounds in Sinkiang province of western China have all the materials and the sophistication needed to conduct such a test from the ground or from a jet bomber, officials say.

This could happen at any time without elaborate and detectable advance preparations, they add.

American experts say they think the Chinese Communist nuclear program has been slowed by the Cultural Revolution.

The trouble seems to be of political origin in Peking, rather than as the result of any specific disorders in Sinkiang, the province bordering the Soviet Union.

There have been about half a dozen confirmed Chinese nuclear blasts, with the last believed to be a hydrogen-type explosion in the early summer of 1967.

East Germans Worried Over Occupation

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — The occupation of Czechoslovakia was a jolt for many East Germans and now they are worried, uncertain and silent.

Politics never are discussed freely in East Germany, but since the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia those familiar with the country say the lid is on tighter than ever.

"They will talk if you get them in a real quiet corner," said one exhibitor at the Leipzig fall fair who has many East German friends. "And they will tell you they don't like it and are afraid there will be more trouble."

Several persons said there were student protests in Leipzig and Erfurt after the invasion and leaflets were distributed.

Some say East German security police are checking typewriters in business offices, trying to find out where the leaflets were typed.

Even though they shy away from mentioning Czechoslovakia, Leipzig residents noted that many visitors stayed away from the fall fair because of "politics" and complain that "now there are even more travel restrictions."

"It's perhaps a step back toward Stalinism," said a cable. There is also uneasiness about German troops again occupying Czechoslovak soil. One exhibitor suggested that East Germans don't talk about it because they are ashamed of their country's participation in the Soviet-led occupation.

"They are more ashamed than you can imagine," he said. A student who refused to commit himself on whether the occupation was necessary, thought nevertheless it was a mistake for East German troops to participate. He said the Czechoslovaks may "dislike the Soviets, but now they hate us East Germans."

He said a friend visiting Prague at the time had left his East German-made Wartburg automobile on the street and Czech youths ripped the doors off it.

The Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland carries a daily report on "counter-revolutionary activity" in Prague, but the reports are often greeted with skepticism.
